Kim and Trump – What comes next?

Kim & Trump... What Comes Next?

Something we thought would never happen... has happened.

Donald Trump and Kim Jong-Un have met and made history- as no US President has met with the leader of North Korea before!

But What Is It, And Why?

This meeting is called “The Summit”- you may have heard of this name on the news recently.

This just means that the two leaders will meet at North Korea.

Other world leaders consider this to be a necessary meeting and one that will hopefully maintain the countries’ relationship and strengthen it, as earlier this year, the two men were boasting about their nuclear weapons on Twitter.

Luckily, Donald Trump is said to have quoted, “The talks worked out far better than anybody expected.”

Let’s hope this peace sustains!

Kick back and relax, the World Cup is coming!

The Fifa World Cup is here! And this time we’re not out yet!

The World Cup this year includes Egypt v Uruguay, Morocco v Iran and Portugal v Spain all on the same day! Then on different days are Russia v Saudi Arabia, France v Australia and Argentina v Iceland!

We’re not mentioning the teams as there are probably 30!

Did You Know:

- A qualification campaign that involved 210 countries, 872 matches and 2454 goals finally gave us the 32 teams who’ll compete for the gold-plated cup!
- The cup is about 30 cm tall.
- It used to be called the Jules Rimet Trophy.

Riddle Time!

You’re in a room. There are no doors, windows and the walls are sturdy. The only things in there are a table, a chainsaw and some glue. How do you get out?

Matt Millz Game Review

One comedy genius, an eager manager and a horrid headmaster- it sounds like the start of a joke and, although that would be highly appropriate, it really isn't- are some mentionable characters in Harry Hill's first book, Matt Millz!

Matt is a boy who worships the art of comedy- he has his own column in the school paper full of hilarious jokes which always go down well!

But when he is removed from the school talent show and finds a new manager- Kitty Hope, an eager 11-year-old girl- the T Factor calls for him.

But can he get through? Or will his age pull him back to an ordinary life?

The Queen had... Eye surgery?

On the 8th of June 2018 at 3:40pm, the Queen had eye surgery to remove a cataract. A cataract is what happens when the lens in your eye, with is a small transparent disc inside the eye, develops cloudy patches. If it isn't treated it can cause blindness.

Now top 5 facts about the royal family!

1. They always have to carry black clothing!
2. The Queen has been wearing the same £8 nail polish since 1989!
3. They aren't allowed to play monopoly!
4. The Queen uses her purse to send secret signals (sshhh! Don't tell anybody!)
5. They don't have a last name

Super-soft Squishes Squish Schools!

Kawaii Squishes were invented in Japan and they are a craze is taking primary schools by storm! It was there squishy feeling that gave them the name. Most Squishies are made out of Polyurethane. Polyurethane was invented by a German named Otto Bayer in 1937. Early use goes back to world war 2 airplane coatings. It is commonly used in cars today! The Squishies are soft and stress less this is why the school has them; you can walk into some shops and get one for less than £10.

Have you ever heard of the amazing eight year old drummer?

Have you ever heard of Yoyoka Soma? She is an eight year old drummer from the lovely Japan and she is very resilient with her obsession. When you hear this drumming, the rock artists will want her in their band! Too late professionals, she is already in a band. Her parents and her friends come to her house to hear her practice and they are astounded. Never do they think they will be able to be better than her because she is unbeatable against any other child. She is definitely a musician to watch!
